STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

Your contribution is critical to the vitality and growth of the McGill community and it is our sincere hope that the rewards you gain from your duties will be both fulfilling and enjoyable!

As a McGill Alumni Association volunteer, your conduct should honour and enhance McGill University’s long-standing reputation for excellence and community stewardship.

As in any work setting, we expect all volunteers to work collaboratively with University Advancement staff and fellow volunteers, to be accountable for decisions, and to exercise the utmost integrity in all dealings.

We also expect our volunteers to treat everyone – fellow alumni, parents, students, staff, service providers and other volunteers – with courtesy and respect, in keeping with your position as an ambassador of McGill, an institution of international standing and reputation.

Depending on your role, you may be required to sign a Non-Disclosure Agreement, stipulating your commitment to protecting the confidentiality of personal information to which you may become privy in the course of your duties.

Adhering to McGill’s standards of conduct, as described above, is critical to preserving McGill’s reputation and the goodwill of the University’s alumni and friends.

As such, should your conduct be deemed not to meet these standards, the Alumni Association reserves the right to release you from your responsibilities, at its discretion, and without contest.
